Restricted visibility: Sounding of the ship's whistles.

During our voyage it is not uncommon for us to pass through areas of restricted visibility, known as fog. When this happens it may be necessary to sound the ship's forward whistles, as this is a legal requirement for all shipping in the nearby vicinity to be aware of QM2's presence. They, in turn, are obliged to do the same. This may be heard during all hours, as we pass through any areas of restricted visibility. Also, we must advise this may appear louder near the bows of the ship. We thank you for your understanding.
